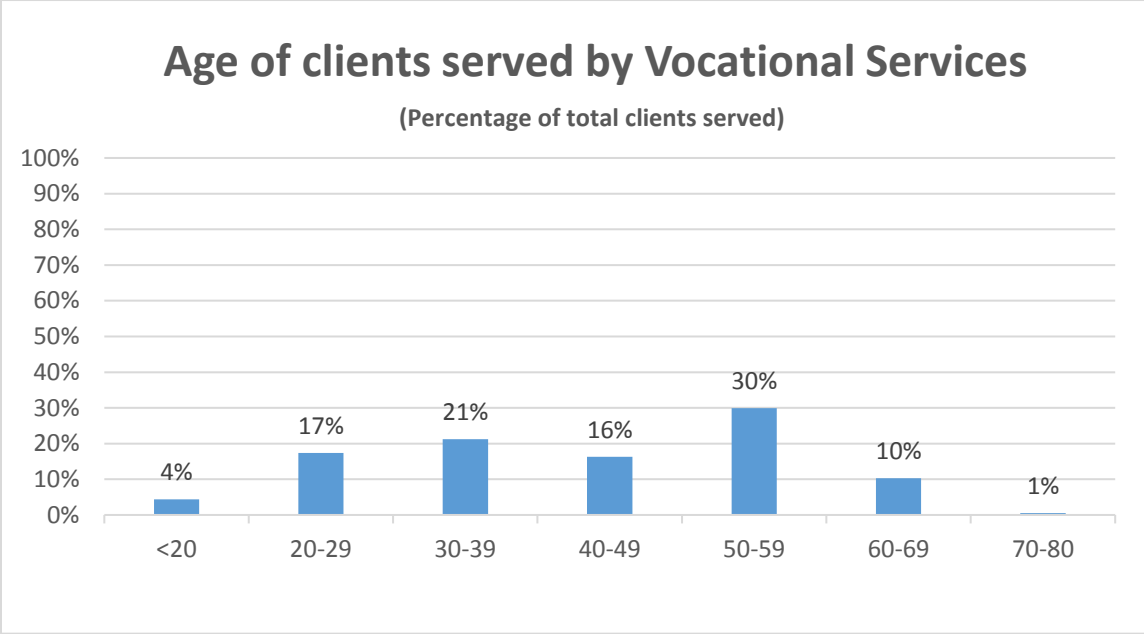
Vocational Services Outcomes 2016

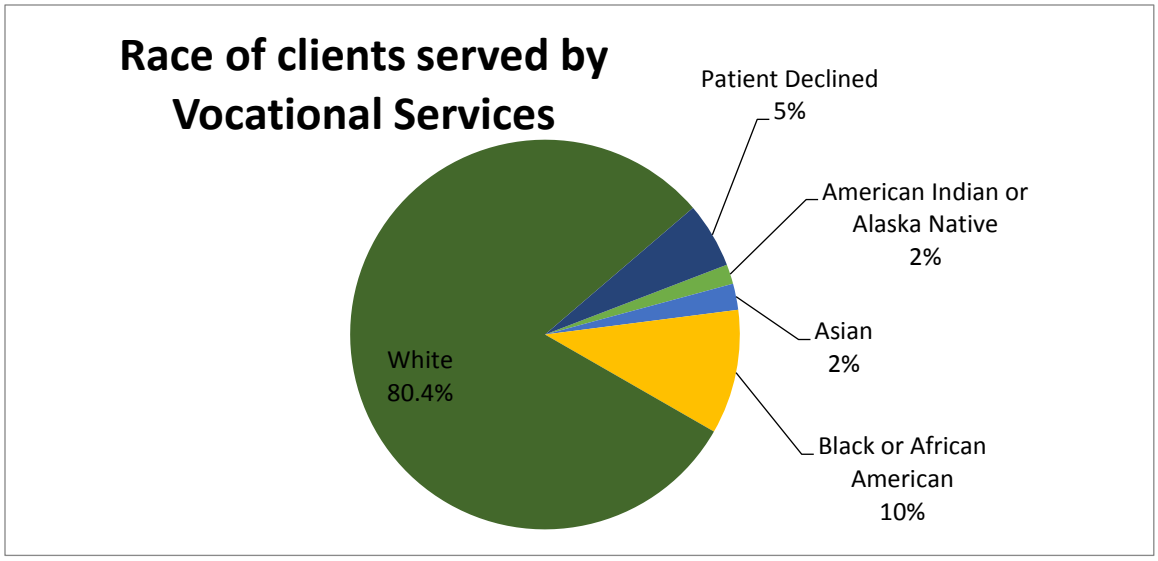
Courage Kenny Rehabilitation Institute's Vocational Services Department helps people prepare to live more independently in the community through competitive employment. Every job seeker has unique abilities and interests. Our vocational experts assist each person to develop their individual vocational plan through vocational assessments and employment services.

Demographics

In 2016, 184 people participated in Vocational Services.

- 51% percent were female; 49% were male.
- 99% spoke English as their primary language; 1% spoke a language other than English.





In 2016, Courage Kenny Rehabilitation Institute's Vocational Services served 184 people in one or more of our services: Evaluation, Job Placement and Extended Employment. In 2016, we started two new services: Post-Secondary Navigation and Career Navigation to meet the needs of participants and referral sources for these services.

For those people who found a job through Vocational Services, the average starting salary was $13.23 per hour. Through Extended Employment, clients made an average of $15.31 per hour and the average length of job retention was 3.04 years while working with Courage Kenny Rehabilitation Institute. Average length of job retention is likely higher, but we are not able to track clients after they leave our service. Extended Employment clients worked an average of 18.33 hours per week and had a job retention rate of 87% while working with Courage Kenny Rehabilitation Institute.
