About us

Allina Health is a not-for-profit health care system dedicated to meeting the lifelong health care needs of communities throughout Minnesota and western Wisconsin. We care for patients through our 90+ clinics, 13 hospitals and wide variety of specialty care services, including technically advanced inpatient and outpatient care, 24-hour emergency care, medical transportation, pharmacy and home and community services.

From quality rankings to new technologies and care models, Allina Health makes a difference in the lives of our patients, our staff and our communities. Physicians choose Allina Health for a variety of reasons. They stay because we offer the depth physicians need to remain challenged and fulfilled in their clinical practices to the day they hang up their stethoscopes for the last time.

Allina Health embraces new models of care, such as the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services Pioneer Accountable Care Organization program. Our leadership role in the national Pioneer program will help shape and lead health care delivery into the future due to our commitment to care improvement, primary care teams, integrated electronic health record and integration of the Allina Integrated Medical Network, a network of employed and affiliated specialty providers. The key to our work is increasing quality, improving the patient experience and lowering the cost of care.

To deliver on its mission to care for the community, Allina Health drives various Community Engagement initiatives, including our employee volunteerism program, Mission Matters, and various community health improvement initiatives.

We care for our communities

Allina Health supports programs that focus on prevention, wellness and disease management. These programs are helping us to transform our care models, enhance the patient experience and advance community health.

CENTER FOR HEALTHCARE INNOVATION AT ALLINA HEALTH

The Center for Healthcare Innovation at Allina Health researches new care models and treatments to transform health and health care. It also advances the strategic vision of Allina Health to improve patient care and serve as a catalyst for change in health care locally and nationally. We participate in a number of highly progressive clinical trials that help patients who suffer from some of the most serious diseases and conditions. But most of all, we are engaged in innovative research projects that focus on prevention, wellness and chronic disease management.

The following projects are our most notable for providing more patient-centered, value-added, improved-outcome care for our patients.

- Hearts Beat Back: Heart of New Ulm project is a 10-year initiative designed to eventually eliminate heart attacks in New Ulm, Minn. In its second year, fruit and vegetable consumption has increased by 29 percent and the number of heart attacks have decreased by 24 percent.

- The Robina Care Guides Project uses specially-trained “care guides” in the primary care setting to help improve chronic care in a way that is inexpensive enough to be sustainable. They work closely with patients who live with chronic diseases.

These innovative approaches are especially timely as we look at Federal Health Care Reform, which includes multiple efforts aimed at improving quality and patient health outcomes through the Triple Aim initiative that will improve the health of the population, while lowering the per capita cost, as we partner with our competitors.
