Allina Health statement on MNA strike authorization vote

June 24, 2025

We are disappointed the union is once again choosing to focus its efforts on organizing its members to walk away from their jobs. The outcome of the strike vote does not mean a strike is imminent, and it does not change the facts about the challenges hospitals and our communities face in this current environment. Contract agreements can only happen at the bargaining table, and it remains our desire to find a responsible path forward together.

Our next negotiation session is on Wednesday, June 25, and we want to make progress toward an agreement that recognizes our care team members in a sustainable way. Now is a time to focus on reaching agreement and not positioning for a disruptive strike that will not benefit anyone given the very real challenges in health care.
