ABBOTT NORTHWESTERN
HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

Inspiration + Action

Inspiration and action infuse the mission of the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation: to raise, steward and disburse funds for the benefit of Abbott Northwestern Hospital and the communities it serves.

Every day, we visit with donors who are inspired to help our hospital advance and make life better for someone else. Some are moved by the experiences they or their loved ones have had with illness, loss or recovery. Others are acting on deeply held values and a desire to serve our community.

Throughout this annual report, you'll meet some of these people.

Their contributions, and yours, coupled with the actions taken together with hospital leadership and staff, ensure that Abbott Northwestern Hospital continues to be a dynamic place of healing and innovation for all patients and their families.

Dear friends,

When reflecting on 2016, the one word that comes to mind is change. As donors to the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation, your gifts bring immediate and lasting change for the better by improving our patient programs, research endeavors and physical spaces.

In partnership with the Foundation, donors support excellence in care and treatment delivery at Abbott Northwestern. Thank you.

I am pleased to share with you some of the dynamic ways donors have helped Abbott Northwestern Hospital continually improve and advance care, as well as key accomplishments of the Foundation during the past year.

- Abbott Northwestern continues to pioneer leading-edge treatments and research studies that have the potential to save and transform lives. From studying how nitrous oxide used for pain management during labor affects mothers and infants, to documenting how acupuncture helps patients recover from a mastectomy by reducing pain, nausea and anxiety, our clinical researchers are setting the standard for patient care.
- The Critical Care Campaign was successfully completed thanks to all of you who supported it! Renovations on the Rod and Barbara Burwell Emergency Department have begun and planning is underway on the Richard M. Schulze Intensive Care Center.
- Our Nursing Excellence initiative helped more than 60 nurses become certified in a specialty area, provided scholarships and awards to 38 nurses, and helped 95 nurses attend local and national conferences.

On behalf of the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation Board of Directors, the Medical Staff and hospital leadership, again, thank you.

Please enjoy reading about all that your contributions help us accomplish.

Inspiration + Action

The $15 million Critical Care Campaign was successfully concluded in 2016, thanks to members of the Erickson family, who came together to donate the $450,000 capstone gift. They include Cari Erickson, a Foundation Board member, and her parents, uncle and aunt, and her cousin and his wife: Neal and Susan Erickson, Ronald and Kristine Erickson, and Brian and Susan Erickson.

"I was about to finish my first term as a Foundation Board member and decided to invite members of my family to the hospital to take a tour. We didn't go into it with the idea that we would be making the capstone gift, but once we went on the tour, we were all so impressed with the doctors and staff that we met, and the plans for the hospital's future. We talked it over and realized that we could come together and make a difference for the hospital. We also had the opportunity to name the Rapid Care Area in the Emergency Department after my grandparents, Alfred and Rose. It's a wonderful living legacy.

"It is clear to us that helping Abbott Northwestern remain a strong, vibrant hospital is in everyone's interest, both for our family personally and for the community as a whole."

2016 Highlights

Critical Care Campaign: We did it!

Work in progress in the new entry and waiting area.

Thanks to 842 individuals, families, organizations and foundations who donated $15 million, the Critical Care Campaign was successfully completed.

Rod and Barbara Burwell's lead gift to the Critical Care Campaign in 2015 helped launch the Emergency Department renovation.

Renovation of the Rod and Barbara Burwell Emergency Department began in early October and will continue in three phases. Phase one, now underway, will focus on the lobby, triage area, low acuity area and a dedicated and secure mental health suite. Planning for the Richard M. Schulze Intensive Care Center has begun.

Sharing Abbott Northwestern's research and treatment advances

INNOVATION SUMMIT Sharing Excellence

Sharing clinical knowledge is fundamental to Abbott Northwestern's role as a regional health care resource. The 2016 Innovation Summit, sponsored by the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation, was a full day of energetic and informative sessions that highlighted care advances in diverse areas like oncology, integrative medicine, mental health, cardiology and neurology. The Foundation is proud to partner with the hospital's best and brightest minds to offer primary care and referring physicians from around the region information about leading-edge research and treatment innovations occurring at Abbott Northwestern.

Ben Bache-Wiig, MD: A trusted partner in philanthropy

After serving as president of Abbott Northwestern Hospital for five years, Ben Bache-Wiig, MD, was asked in 2016 to take on a new role as executive vice president of the Allina Health Group and Allina Health chief clinical officer. In early 2017, Tom O'Connor, president, United Hospital, became interim president of Abbott Northwestern Hospital, while continuing his responsibilities for United.

During Bache-Wiig's tenure, many initiatives were implemented to expand, accelerate and promote Abbott Northwestern's role as a regional referral center and leader in specialty and sub-specialty care.

In partnership with the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation, highlights include:

- launching the Foundation's Clinical Innovation Grants program, which grants $1 million a year to clinicians to conduct research to improve patient care at Abbott Northwestern
- completing two major capital campaigns, the $15 million Critical Care Campaign, which was completed in 2016, and the $5 million campaign to open The Mother Baby Center in 2013 in collaboration with Children's Minnesota
- increasing access to around-the-clock treatment with the implementation and expansion of TeleHeart and TeleStroke sites around Minnesota
- achieving Magnet® designation from the American Nurses Credentialing Center for the second time, an accomplishment that only a small number of hospitals can claim
- partnering with Media Minefield to expand the visibility of the expertise of Abbott Northwestern clinicians. Physicians from the hospital have been frequent guests on local newscasts to share their knowledge with the public.

"Dr. Bache-Wiig has been a trusted partner in the work of the Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation, both in encouraging and supporting philanthropy, and in planning for the thoughtful and prudent use of Foundation funds," said Richard Meyer, president, Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation. "Although we'll miss working with him on a day-to-day basis, we are pleased that he remains an important ally in promoting philanthropy and fortunate that he has taken an even larger role within Allina Health."

50 YEARS

Internal Medicine Residency Program celebrates 50th anniversary

The Abbott Northwestern Internal Medicine Residency Program celebrated its 50th year in October with a celebration that reunited 130 alumni. A morning educational session featured lectures presented by residency program graduates. In the evening, alumni and faculty gathered for a presentation by Laurel Drevlow, MD, detailing the history of the Internal Medicine Residency Program. The reunion presented a unique opportunity for graduates from around the state and around the country to reunite and celebrate their ongoing admiration for, and connection to, Abbott Northwestern.

The Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation supports the Internal Medicine Residency Program with scholarships for conferences and professional education.

Welcome back: Retired and alumni nurses return to campus

The Foundation and Nursing Department had the pleasure of hosting retired and alumni nurses in August for what has become an annual tradition. They returned to Abbott Northwestern to catch up with colleagues and classmates, take tours of campus and learn about nursing initiatives and hospital projects.

Classmates and colleagues connecting over breakfast.

Annual President's Circle gathering

Plus One: Physicians donate $5.8 million over 10 years

In the last 10 years, Plus One has:

- launched the ED Cares prescription assistance fund to help Emergency Department patients in need pay for discharge medications
- provided significant support to community programs, with a special focus on youth services, including the Midtown Safety Center, Everybody Wins Minnesota (a reading program at Andersen School), South High School and Roosevelt High School scholarships, Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board youth sports and programs, National Night Out, Sharing & Caring Hands and Special Olympics
- supported a wide range of Abbott Northwestern clinical departments and patient care services
- funded Nurses Week activities each May to honor and celebrate nurses
- provided hospital employees with an annual appreciation gift

Each year, these key supporters of Abbott Northwestern Hospital are invited to a special gathering with hospital leaders. In 2016, Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation Board Member Sharon Hawkins hosted a lovely and engaging event at her home.

JIM AND CARMEN CAMPBELL

Inspiration + Action

Jim and Carmen Campbell, lead donors in supporting the Ewe Chapel renovation and Spiritual Care Program expansion.

"Our gift is less about remodeling a space and more about supporting the wholeness of spiritual and emotional well-being for patients, families and staff. The importance of being able to step back, meditate and find tranquility has resonated with us for some time. We're also people who have friends and family members of every race, creed, color and sexual orientation. With this gift, we've encouraged the hospital to look at ways to build inclusivity into the new worship space as well as in its care and support for people of diverse spiritual traditions."

Inspiration + Action

Linda Givens, along with her children, Michael and Megan, designated funds from their annual Mind Over Matter charitable golf tournament to establish the Givens Brain Tumor Center. The donation honors their husband and father, Mike Givens, who died from brain cancer.

“When you’re given a diagnosis like brain cancer, your whole world spins. Mike was critically ill, and we fought to get him back. The team at Abbott Northwestern fought hard right along with us. So many people there touched our lives and embraced us. Then we learned about Dr. [John] Trusheim’s vision for the Brain Tumor Center. We’re not ‘bricks and mortar’ donors; for us it’s about whole person, coordinated care. To bring everything together in one center, led by Dr. Trusheim – this donation was an easy fit for us.”

Inspiration + Action

Phillip Iliff, a security officer at Abbott Northwestern for the past 11 years, donates annually to the Foundation's Community Giving Campaign. Through the campaign, employees can make a charitable gift to Abbott Northwestern Hospital Foundation, any Allina Health program or foundation, local United Way organizations or any qualifying nonprofit organization.

"I was born in India and was adopted. In the last few years, I've volunteered with Feed My Starving Children, an organization that packages food and sends it to countries where it's needed. I've also been donating to Feed My Starving Children through the Community Giving Campaign. Everyone needs food, water and shelter. Maybe because I came from a third world country, this is big in my mind. Everyone deserves a chance."

Inspiration + Action

"I was diagnosed with breast cancer in 1991. Later I was asked to join a group of patients, doctors, nurses and others who were planning the Piper Breast Center, and I helped to develop its volunteer program. As volunteers, we were inspired to make the Piper Breast Center as welcoming, comfortable and beautiful as we could. I started contributing to the flower fund because it seemed like a way to let patients know 'You're in a good place and we will take good care of you.'

"Looking back, I really owe the Piper Breast Center a big thank you, even though it had nothing to do with my diagnosis and treatment. It made my life relevant because I could give something back as a volunteer – by listening, holding someone's hand, and letting them know we were there for them."

JANE GRIFFIN

Jane Griffin's annual gift ensures that there are always fresh flowers in the Piper Breast Center's reception area. Her giving tradition began in 1996 when she started the Jean Bergquist Flower Fund in memory of her mother, and she recently expanded it to include the Piper Breast Center at Abbott Northwestern – WestHealth in Plymouth.

Inspiration + Action

Rob and Julie Daugherty, whose gift establishes a protocol for nurses to follow when families experience a miscarriage in the Emergency Department.

"Six years ago, we rushed to Chicago to be with our son and daughter-in-law after learning that their twin baby girls had died just a few weeks before their due date. We were in the hospital with them as the babies were stillborn, and unfortunately, no one knew how to guide us through this very painful experience. Our goal with this gift is to bring perinatal loss out into the light, and to see the life of the baby and the mother nurtured, no matter what the outcome."

Deane Manolis, MD, a retired Abbott Northwestern psychiatrist, established the Deane C. Manolis Fund for Mental Health Nursing Excellence, part of the Foundation's Nursing Excellence Initiative. His gift reflects a long-standing commitment to advancing mental health services in the community, as well as his strong desire to help the Mental Health and Addiction Services team heal after the 2016 nurses' strike. The fund will support organizational development for the Mental Health and Addiction Services nursing team and continuing education opportunities for its nurses. Manolis credits his friend and former colleague Sue Murray, RN, a Mental Health and Addiction Services nurse, with helping to shape the focus and intent of the gift.

Inspiration + Action

"Back when I was the Medical Staff president at Metropolitan Medical Center, I went through the 1984 nurses' strike. When the 2016 strike ended last fall, I knew how difficult it would be for the nurses and administrative team to reestablish trust and begin to work together again. At the same time, Sue and I began talking about it. We came up with the idea of making a donation to try to do whatever was possible to bring this team back together. The services they provide are so vital. I've seen what good mental health care can do for people and the lives it can save. Once you've had that experience, it's always in you."
