Saving and improving lives

A message from Linda Dircks, Foundation Board Chair

As I look back at 2009, it was an exciting year as we engaged community members and formed a number of meaningful partnerships. It also was a very rewarding year as much of the work we do, with the help of generous donors, are life-saving endeavors.

The Foundation funded the life-sustaining, Lucas Device for all three Allina ambulances. The Lucas Device performs chest compression to keep blood flowing in patients suffering a heart attack. Just a few years ago we purchased the same unit for our Emergency Room and have saved a number of lives with that piece of equipment.

In partnership with Wright Hennepin's Operation Round Up program, The Community Health Foundation of Wright County, Elim Care Foundation, local firefighters and law enforcement, we funded and implemented Project Lifesaver. Eight families quickly signed up for a radio-transmitting bracelet that can help locate an individual who has wandered away as a result of Autism, Alzheimer's disease or other related disorders.

Many of the Foundation's fundraising activities in 2009 involved the color pink. As a result of Tough Enough To Wear Pink initiatives with the Buffalo and Hamel Rodeos and the Pink Street Party in partnership with Sara's Dance Foundation, we were able to host two Mammo Parties. The parties gave 68 women the opportunity to receive a mammogram, some pampering and education too.

And finally, the Foundation is wrapping babies born at Buffalo Hospital in love with Halo SleepSacks. We are providing a two-year supply of this wearable blanket designed to promote a safe sleep environment and reduce the risk of SIDs. Every baby born at Buffalo Hospital will now go home with his or her own Halo Sleep Sack.

So, you can see, our work has such an incredible impact on those we serve. Your charitable gifts truly are lifesaving.

On behalf of the entire Foundation Board, I'd like thank each and every donor who has made a commitment to the Buffalo Hospital Foundation. Your gift, large or small, has an impact on your family, friends and neighbors.

Your gifts in action

By Karla Heeter, Foundation executive director

Buffalo Hospital Foundation's mission is to serve as a catalyst for innovative services and facilities to improve community health. We certainly achieved that in 2009 and continue to do so this year.

From community wellness to surgical services, emergency care to delivery babies, Buffalo Hospital plays a vital role in the health of our fast-growing community. Today the hospital is stronger than ever, thanks to many individuals, companies and organizations.

Labor in full-swing

Buffalo Hospital is currently building a new Birth Center that will double the size of our current center and provide a more comfortable, healing environment for families. This project wouldn't be possible without community support.

The Foundation is raising $1 million of the $7.1 million needed to build the Birth Center. Community support has been amazing — so far, we have raised $785,000 — with just $215,000 to go! Reaching that goal is the Foundation's No. 1 priority in 2010. A gift of any size makes a difference. We have had many individuals and companies participate in the Capital Campaign at levels that allow them a naming opportunity, such as post-partum rooms, the nursery and triage rooms. To see the full list and remaining naming opportunities, visit us online at buffalohospital.org. On the home page, you will find a Birth Center construction page.

When the new Birth Center is complete this summer, patients will enjoy an ambiance and amenities similar to what you find in a luxury hotel. I can't wait to welcome our donors and community members at the Grand Opening celebration. It is going to be a special day when the lullaby chimes ring throughout the hospital for the first time, announcing the first birth in the new Birth Center.

The Birth Center project is seen as only the beginning of a robust art collection the hospital hopes to collect in the coming years. As the collection grows, viewers will see many mediums represented from paintings in oil, acrylic and watercolor to drawings, mosaic works, glass, textile art, photography and sculpture. If you would like to make a donation to this ongoing project, contact Buffalo Hospital Foundation at 763-684-6800.

Art collection to be part of new Birth Center

It has long been known that art can be therapeutic to one's mind, body and spirit. Connecting people with the power of art at key moments of their lives can transform his or her health care experience. Art can add to physical, mental and emotional recovery, including relieving anxiety and decreasing the perception of pain.

Andrew Burgdorf, MD, Allina Medical Clinic – Buffalo, began forming ideas several years ago about creating a holistic healing element into the hospital. The new Birth Center provides that opportunity.

"I see it as a chance to showcase local artists and their work, promoting regional settings and local flavors," said Burgdorf. "This project is a perfect fit with Allina's healing environment objectives. Art reaches the viewer on many levels – inspiring, motivating, engaging parts of people's bodies or brains and allowing them to transcend their environment for a little while."

As the new Birth Center comes together, so is Burgdorf's dream. Local residents John and Mary Ellen Lundsten gave Buffalo Hospital Foundation a generous gift, allowing Burgdorf's plan to become a reality.

"We have had the personal experience of art being a healing influence in the health care setting," says John Lundsten. "It brings us great pleasure to be able to provide this for the community and begin a healing art collection that will benefit visitors, patients and staff at Buffalo Hospital in a meaningful way."

Local artist and arts advocate, Meredith Johanson has been chosen as the coordinator of the healing arts projects.

"Art has a profound effect on the human spirit," says Johanson. "Nature as a subject can be seen as a 'neutral unifier' of our healing environment, allowing the viewer to access their own emotions in response to viewing the art rather than being presented with an emotional image.

"Within nature we find all elements of beauty, birth, healing, regeneration and resolution. Bringing nature into our man-made world softens its impact and offers a wide array of subjects."

Johanson is especially excited about the local connection. "Using art from local artists brings our community into the hospital and showcases the amazing amount of talent we have in the area. How fun it will be for hospital visitors to see work their friend, relative or neighbor made. I'm hoping it will make the experience a little more personal for them."

Inaugural Pink Street Party — a powerful success

Hundreds of people gathered on a cold, rainy night last October to honor the memory or celebrate a loved one touched by cancer.

The Pink Street Party is a unique partnership between Buffalo Hospital Foundation and Sara's Dance Foundation to elevate cancer awareness and impact the quality of life for those diagnosed with cancer. Proceeds are shared by both foundations.

Individuals and groups sponsored a string of hot pink lights, making it possible to illuminate downtown Buffalo the entire month of October. Those in attendance for the Pink Street Party enjoyed chair massages, food and lots of shopping deals from downtown stores and vendors. At dark, all the names of those being honored, celebrated or remembered were read, followed by a group count down as we flipped the switch on the lights. It was a night to remember and we look forward to the second Pink Street Party on Thursday, Oct. 7.
